LETTER FROM THE ORGANISERS

Dear attendee,

It is with great pleasure for me to welcome you in Buenos Aires for the Argentina Oil, Gas, and Energy 2019 Summit, the Official Summit of the Energy Sector for the country.

We have worked very closely with the Argentinian Agency for Investment and International Trade, as well as with the British Argentinian Chamber of Commerce, designing this official summit to be a success for all the participants, with the scope to become an essential meeting for the industry.

The Argentina Oil, Gas, and Energy Summit will shed light on developments in exploration and production, geology, infrastructure, business and licenses, as well as important energy projects throughout Argentina.

The Argentina Summit will address all the business opportunities identified in the country so you can gauge your involvement and strategy accordingly.

We would also like to express our warmest regards to AAICI and BACC for their kind support.

With best wishes,

Chryssa Tsouraki

CEO

IN-VR Oil & Gas

ARGENTINA IN PROJECTS & NUMBERS

Argentina is the largest gas producer in South America and is one of the most important regional players in oil & gas. Argentina's proven natural gas reserves total 350 bcm (13.4 tcf), with output standing at 37.1 bcm (1.31 tcf). Argentina's unconventional oil and gas plays have prolific potential. The country has the fourth-largest unproven, but technically recoverable reserves of shale oil at 27 billion barrels globally., Furthermore, it has the second-largest reserves of shale gas globally at 22.7 tcm.

Part of the success is thanks to Argentina's masterful Gas Plan, which creates a framework for incentives in unconventional reservoirs and minimum gas price guarantees. At 2.4 billion barrels, Argentina has the fourth-largest oil reserves in South America, with a total crude output of 593,000 bopd annually.

Vaca Muerta

Vaca Muerta is the main non-conventional hydrocarbon formation in Argentina. The formation occupies an area of 36,000 km², with resources estimated at 16 billion barrels of oil and 308 cubic feet of gas. The shale play is driving innovation through the commercial production of shale oil and gas, with many operators joining to benefit from this massive opportunity,

The Los Molles Formation

The Los Molles formation is the second largest oil and gas formation in the Neuquén Basin, having more than 275 trillion cubic feet of technically recoverable shale gas and 3.7 billion barrels of technically recoverable oil, with plans for drilling more than 46 shale gas wells in recent years.

Energy

Argentina is creating an attractive environment for renewable energy investments. The Ministry of Energy launched an innovative renewable energy bidding program called RenovAr, aiming to produce 20% of Argentina's electricity from renewable sources by 2025, with the intermediate target of 16% by 2021.

197 projects have already been awarded, with potential for hundreds more.

With renewable energy accounting for 22% of consumption in Latin America, the time to enter the Argentinian renewables market as it is growing to reach this potential is now.

With 80% of Argentina using local grids, the opportunity for energy grid projects and consulting is higher than ever, as power generation from renewables and shale gas are increasing exponentially.
